THE Owensboro Messenger says that Ben Terrell who figured so conspicuously in the Third Party Convention at St. Louis has been to Russellville, Ky., telling the farmers that they should submit their differences to the Democratic Contention this year, and thus move along with the great procession.

In last Tuesday's issue of the Times Maj. W. R. Kinney, of Louisville, discussed the Presidential situation at some length. The Major being an old time campaigner knows a thing or two about politics and politicians. If he could be pduced to take the stump this summer would make things red hot for Bro Harrison and Kentucky Republicans.

THERE is a good deal of complaint in maker's mail service. It is said that it takes a letter as long to go from there to Florida as it does to Europe. But then this is all to be changed next year, when all postmasters, and Bro. Wannamaker included are to be retired, and their places filled by efficient Democrats.

ATTORNEY General, Hendrick, went to Louisville last week to institute proceedings in the courts to stop the Frankfort Lottery from doing any more business in the State. It has always been a mystery why this Lottery concern has been allowed to carry on its business in Louisville and elsewhere, when its charter expired over two years ago. Surely its vention: C. C. MAYOR Tyler has rejected all the bids put in on the vitrified brick contracts. The city of Louisville wants over a million of brick for paving purposes, but the Mayor thinks the prices now a little too steep and calls for a new deal all around. It has not been but a few years when the same piece of ground would have hung fire at fifty cents per foot. But now the demand for lots is increasing and as the demand continues, the prices go up. The lot was not desirable either, but the people must have houses, and wherever they are placed, they rent readily at good figures. On main street there has been a marked rise in the prices of real estate, over what they re five years ago. To-day, ground sold for $10 per foot five years ago is Representative Willett, of Meade, was at home from Frankfort last Monday interviewing his constituants as to their wants and desires in the Legislature. He says it pays to come home occasionally and get their views. It keeps me out of a great deal of trouble. I was sent there to serve them and I am trying to do it the best I know how. "I am not influenced," said he, "in my actions by the highest prices for all kinds of coun- the fellows who stand around on the corners and sit on nail kegs in country stores whittling their time away, or the court house politicians, but am guided by the sturdy old farmer and the active, successful business men of the country, and I find by taking their advice I am not liable to go very far wrong."

"By the way," said he, "your county, Breckenridge, has a splendid Representative in Mr. Severs. He is a good worker and a man of excellent judgement, active and energetic, and when an opportunity presents itself is not afraid to open his mouth. He is a useful member in the house and your county should be proud of him. I will be at home for sev-

Figure on this a little and you will see what is paid out to these men in this city every month. It amounts to nearly $4,000 per month for this item alone. In addition to the engineers and firemen there are from 40 to 50 men employed in the shops who earn from $1 to $2.50 per day making in round numbers nearly $6,000 per month paid for labor alone. And yet there are some people in this town who say the shops are of no benefit to us.
